

PROFILE

With a diverse background in sales, customer service, and social work, I bring a range of transferable skills to any role. I am a highly driven and enthusiastic individual with a proven track record of success in generating sales and delivering exceptional customer service. I am also experienced in developing and maintaining long-term relationships with clients and understanding their unique needs and challenges. With a passion for making a difference in people's lives, I have incorporated social work skills into my sales and customer service roles, with a focus on empathy and building trust.
